care, hospitality and more. Examples of TEF Testing Documents The TEF has four main sections —read, write, speak and listen — and depending on the version of the test you take, a fifth section on grammar. Each section has a combination of question types, but the vast majority are multiple options. There are sample documents available online that show real questions that were used in previous versions of the test, with a response key included. You can use these resources to practice each section and familiarize yourself with the test format. Sample documents are written in French, so you can measure your current language skills and see how well prepared you are for the test. You will also find sample documents in some of the study guides that are available for the sale of test preparation companies. Let’s see a sample document from each test section to see what type of questions you can expect in each section: Sample Document 1: Reading Understanding The reading comprehension section has 50 questions in total, which are divided into four sub-sections. Allinclude multiple choice questions involving reading and understanding of a phrase, a text paragraph, or an ad. You will be tested to see how well you understandof words and phrases and process information that reads in French. Example 2: Auditory comprehension The auditory comprehension section presents 60 mental optional questions in 4 sections. In this part of the test, he will listen to audio clues that contain information related to the questions. For example, the speaker could describe a backpack, and it will be asked to choose from a backpack, they are talking about several different drawings. Or, it is possible that you listen to a message in an automatic answering machine and ask you questions of mism applauds about it. In another section, you will listen to several people to answer the same question and you will be asked to guess about their feelings or personality. In his words and tone of. There is also a section in which you will have to decide if the phrase you hear is the same as the phrase written in the test. This requires that you pay a lot of attention and use context clues to understand what the speaker is trying to say. For this section, you can download a ZIP file from the audio tracks that accompany this sample document. Ask and consult your answers at the end of the exam. Example 3: Expression written the writing section lasts 1 hour and has 2 sections. In the first part, you will read an article and must end it by adding several more pages (at least 80 words) to the article. In the second part, you will read a phrase of a periodic and you will be asked to write a letter to the editor who responds to the subject and make 3 arguments in favor of your point of view. of ideas, clarity of information and its ability to develop a coherent argument. Gradulators use a standardized framework based on Language Learning levels A1: C2 developed by the European Common Reference Framework (CEFR). EXAMPLE 4: ORAL EXPRESSIZATION The oratory section lasts 15 minutes and includes 2 sections. A You will deliver this test section and analyze your oratory skills. Section A lasts 5 minutes and includes calling an ad number and asking a dozen questions about a job offer or the service announced. Section B lasts 10 minutes and requires that your examiner be persuaded to participate in an activity or situation described in an advertisement. Their responses will be classified according to their ability to participate in a conversation by presenting a situation, requesting information, and responding to ideas. It will also be classified in pronunciation and grammar according to the standard European framework (A1 % - C2). Example 5: Grammarthe Grammar The section includes 40 questions organized in four parts. Each part tests a different aspect of grammar, such as choosing the correct verbal conjugation to complete a sentence or find the grammatical error in a text paragraph. You can also be asked to find synonyms and complete the blank space to demonstrate your understanding of French grammar and syntax. We can help show proof of your competition in English or French is an important part of your application for permanent residence in Canada. But should you take a language test or two? What score do you need to increase your chances of a successful application? The Express input system uses a variety of factors to give "points" to your profile, including your TEF and IELTS scores. Your language skills are just a factor, and the minimum score you need depends on the visa you are requesting. If you have problems understanding how your language skills fit into the application process, we can help you. Just contact our team and we will help you decide whether or not to take the TEF exam as part of your Canadian visa application.
